If service was disconnected due to non payment of account, payment must be made in full or an agreement between the Utility and owner must be reached in order to resume service.

The legal owner of the property is ultimately responsible for payment on the Utility account. The Utility agrees to mail billings to a renter as a courtesy only and will hold the owner of the property accountable for non payment not the renter. Services may be disconnected if the account becomes delinquent and no payment arrangements have been made.
